These images, which include an alleged alien, were photographed inside a real alien flying saucer, according to sensational claims.

by Jon Austin

The pictures of a "human-like alien" and "control panel inside a flying saucer" are being published in a new book. The grainy black and white images appear to show inside a cockpit with seating, control panel and other objects. There is also what looks like a person wearing sunglasses that is said to be a "real alien visitor".

According to staggering claims in the book UFO Contacts in Italy, which is about so-called alien contact and abductions in the country, a flying saucer landed in Francavillia, Italy on the Adriatic Coast. Dr Roberto Pinotti, 73, author of the book, due to be published on February 1, spoke about what is claimed happened. He said: "Two men were allowed to enter the UFO and take photographs. The diameter of the UFO was 24 metres, that of the control cabin was 10 metres. "These rare and extraordinary photographs, as well as two photographs of the alleged extraterrestrial pilot."

The extraordinary events are said to have happened in October 1957. He added: "Much of the information in this book is being published in English for the very first time. "The book contains a whole array of UFO/alien contact cases from Italy but surely one of the most unusual incidents is this one from 1957. "It is the only case that I am aware of that allegedly has photographs of the inside of the UFO.

"What was destined to be called 'the Friendship case' started near Pescara between 1956 and 1957. "A group of local residents seems to have been involved in periodic regular contacts with humanlike extra-terrestrial 'friends' willing to help mankind. "These beings would have built underground bases on Earth and in Italy the most important one would have been in the central zone of the peninsula along the Adriatic coast not far from Pescara." It is claimed the "contact" in the area went on for 20 years and even Italian diplomat Consul Alberto Perego witnessed events. Sceptics say the pictures and the case are just another elaborate hoax.

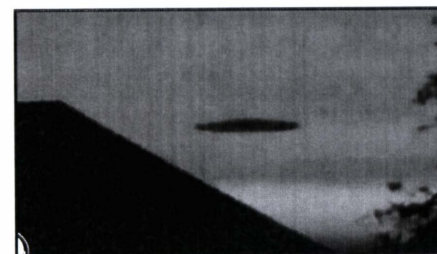

Publisher Phillip Mantle said: "Roberto Pinotti is an aerospace journalist and author and the main Italian scholar in ufology, with a degree in politics and sociology from the University of Florence. "He is the only living founder of Italy's Centro Ufologico Nazionale (CUN), one of the world's oldest and most authoritative private UFO study organisations formed 50 years ago." He was formerly an officer of the NATO Italian Army III Missile Brigade. He claims to have co-operated with the Italian Intelligence community as a consultant for UFOs and been given important official documents by the Italian Department of Defence.

Barnsley static UFO

An elliptical or cigar-shaped static object (or disk on its edge) was reported to SecureTeam to have been hovering over Barnsley, Yorkshire for several hours. Witness Stephen Owl said that he thought it looked out of place as there wasn't a single cloud in the sky all day. When he went back into his kitchen it was still there in exactly the same place as it had been an hour before. He took two videos, one when it had been there for about an hour, and another two hours later. It did not change its shape at all during the time it was seen, except for seeming to faintly display some kind of dome or superstructure just as the sun was setting. It was seen between 9.00 and 11.30 on July 1st.

Russian Mars probe 'Phobos 2' sent back images of a 20-mile-long cylindrical shaped object, before losing signal

Phobos is one of two moons that surround Mars, and it has been thought of as being something of a mysterious object. It was once said that Phobos must be hollow and this led to the question of whether it was a huge space station that had been hollowed out.

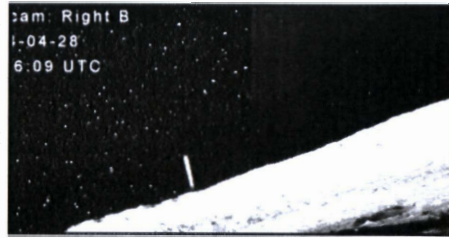

Russia launched two satellite probes that were unmanned in July 1988. These were Phobos 1 and 2 and headed in the direction of Mars. Their chief intention was to investigate the mysterious moon of the planet but was said to be lost while making their way there just two months later. It was said that Phobos 1 was lost due to an error with radio command. The reason for the loss of Phobos 2 has been intriguing, but it did manage to beam some information and images from Mars.

Things were going well with Phobos 2 until it came to align with Phobos. On March 28, the mission control center said they suddenly encountered communication issues with Phobos 2.

It was said that Phobos 2 had not communicated with Earth as it had been scheduled to do so after it completed an operation going around Phobos, the Martian moon. So what was behind the loss of Phobos 2? Was it a malfunction as suggested? The picture shows a cylindrical object photographed by Phobos 2.

Secret British "X-Files" reveal the UK thought China had a UFO

By Andrew Koubaridis

Long before Fox Mulder and Dana Scully made alien-hunting famous in the hit show "The X-Files," British defence experts were quietly doing the same thing.

Newly-released files have revealed the lengths the British security services went to in order to catch a UFO and the once-classified documents also show what they intended to do with it if they found one. The UK feared their rivals China or the Soviet Union had already found a UFO and "impounded it," so they could learn the secrets of alien technology. The UK spies were of the belief the Chinese or Soviets were using the aliens' secrets to develop fast aircraft that were invisible on radars. The Ministry of Defence ran a secret UFO desk the public were not aware of between 1947 and 1997. While one desk took calls from Brits who claimed to have seen strange objects in the sky, the secret desk reportedly sent staff to delve into the claims.

A report entitled "UAPs" (Unidentified Aerial Phenomena) in the UK Air Defence Region is set to be released to the public after being declassified. The report makes up a part of three files running to more than 1,000 pages which were held back from the UFO records that have already been transferred to the National Archives. The report said the air force was "particularly interested in any novel technology ... propulsion, stealth and any novel electromagnetic technologies."

A senior commander was concerned a foreign power could already have a UFO and be exploiting its technology. The unnamed commander urged the UK needed to be on alert for anything strange in the skies. "An actual – or potential – enemy could develop a flying device with the characteristics that these phenomena seem to have." He said enemy aircraft that moved very quickly and seemingly vanished should be closely examined.

University lecturer – and UFO expert – Dr. David Clarke said the release of the files showed the lengths defence officials went to. "Even though they have been partly censored they can't conceal the fact the UK military was interested in capturing UFO technology – or what they coyly refer to as 'novel weapon technology'," he told The Sun. "And the files reveal they were desperate to capture this technology – wherever it came from – before the Russians or the Chinese got hold of it first."

The Truth Is Out There

The number of reported UFO sightings is seemingly booming, if the Internet is anything to go by.

Every day, countless videos of unidentified orbs or strange objects in the sky are uploaded online — but with new ways to report and share sightings come whole new levels of hoaxes and fakes. How do we separate the signal from the noise? We don't. We just look at the reports we have and decide for ourselves which are the most believable.

According to the National UFO Reporting Center, 2017 brought them 4,655 UFO sighting reports within the United States, down from 2016's 5,619. How will 2018 fare?

Let's find out. On this page, you'll find some of 2018's more prominent UFO sightings. Some may be hoaxes, some may have ordinary explanations. Perhaps we'll catch a few that are truly out of this world.

A UFO Sighting Among New York Clouds

An ATC recording from May 26, 2018 provides a glimpse into an intriguing possible UFO encounter. At about 1:00 p.m. over Huntington, New York, a pilot contacted air traffic control to report an unidentified object in front of his plane, at an altitude of about 6,000 feet.

"I have an object in front of me, I don't know what it is," the pilot said. "You mean like a drone or something?" responded the controller. The pilot wasn't convinced, reporting that the object appeared larger than a drone, though ATC showed nothing on radar. The pilot then requested to make a left turn, which was granted. At this point, the object moved behind the plane and into the surrounding clouds.

"Now it's gone behind the clouds, I have no idea what it is," the pilot said, "Definitely something was there." "Okay, I mean, I have to assume it was a drone," said the ATC. "Actually, it looked like it had lights on it." "That's, uh, really interesting...” The controller later provided the pilot with a phone number to call upon landing — something usually reserved for pilots who commit errors during flight, but not on this occasion. At this time, the object is simply classed as drone-like, but it’s still unclear what it truly was.

UFOs and Purple Beams Over Phoenix

On April 11, 2018, YouTuber Earthly Patriot was “watching webcams” of the skies over Phoenix, Arizona and witnessed what she describes as “several purple beams” and other strange UFOs. The footage was later picked up and shared by a few media outlets, including Coast to Coast AM.

In the video, you can see clips of various bright orb-like lights dancing in the sky, as well as “purple beams.” One YouTube commenter likens the appearance of the beams to Tesla scalar waves, while others suggest they are likely just light reflected off insects.

Columbus, North Carolina Lights in the Night

A strange UFO sighting out of Columbus, North Carolina was reported to MUFON on April 3, 2018. The sighting apparently happened that same evening. It shows what some are claiming is a “UFO mothership” — a series of lights in a nearly circular or triangular pattern that perhaps betrays a larger object hiding in the night sky.

Many aren’t convinced, with several folks in the YouTube comments of the above video saying it’s more likely lights or lanterns on a hill or nearby building.

U.S. Navy Pilots Encounter UFO Over East Coast

In March 2018, The Stars Academy of Arts and Science released footage from 2015 featuring an encounter between two Navy pilots and an unidentified object over the east coast. The very short clip (courtesy USA Today) is only about 30 seconds long, captured using an infrared camera. “Whoa, got it! Woo hoo!” one of the F/A-18 fighter pilots exclaims as he tracks the apparently fast-moving UFO. “What the (expletive) is that thing?”

As in many cases, this particular UFO sighting arrives alongside a severe lack of information about the object itself — how fast was it moving, could it have been a drone, what was the official response, etc. According to USA Today, the Department of Defense has yet to comment. However, this release is part of a stream of declassified documents and videos pertaining to UFOs that have appeared over the past several months.

Pilots Have A Close Encounter Over Arizona

Two pilots in two separate planes reportedly encountered a UFO while flying above Arizona on February 24, 2018. The unidentified object passed over their planes — one a Phoenix Air Learjet, the other an American Airlines jet — during routine flights. The Federal Aviation Administration later released audio of the pilots reporting the unidentified object to Air Traffic Control.

“Was anybody above us that passed us like 30 seconds ago?” the Learjet pilot asked after sighting the object. “Negative,” replied the controller. “OK. Something did,” the pilot added, with another pilot quipping, “It’s a UFO!” Later, an American Airlines pilot would confirm that he also saw the object in the area, at least 2,000 feet above his plane.

The object has not, at this time, been identified. One possibility that’s been floated is a weather balloon. “I don’t know what it was,” one of the pilots said, “It wasn’t an airplane.” They did, however, mention it had a reflection.

American extraterrestrial encounter statistics

According to the NUFORC database, California ranks number one for extraterrestrial encounter reports within the United States, by quite a lot. This could be due to the state’s high population, but let’s take a look at the top ten states by UFO reports, as of April 27, 2018:

California (13,228) Florida (6,276) Washington (5,739) Texas (4,843) New York (4,567) Arizona (3,915) Pennsylvania (3,771) Illinois (3,509) Ohio (3,451) North Carolina (2,838)

The population of California is reportedly 39.54 million, while Florida is home to an estimated 20.98 million people. Washington, however, with its 7.4 million residents, very nearly matches the number of reports coming out of Florida, and beats Texas with its population of about 28.3 million.

Cigar-Shaped UFO Sighted Over United Kingdom

On July 7, a family spotted a black, cigar-shaped UFO in the skies over Banbury, Oxfordshire in the UK. The object had a very narrow cylindrical shape and at times appeared to either be reflective or give off its own light (at approx. 1:03 in the video, you can see light move from the bottom up over the surface of the object).

According to the uploader, the object “was pretty much holding position” despite moving clouds and a decent wind. This, he says, possibly counters the idea that it was a solar balloon, though many believe this to be the case. Near the end of the sighting (which does not appear in the video), the object “climbed rapidly at a near vertical angle until it was no longer visible.”

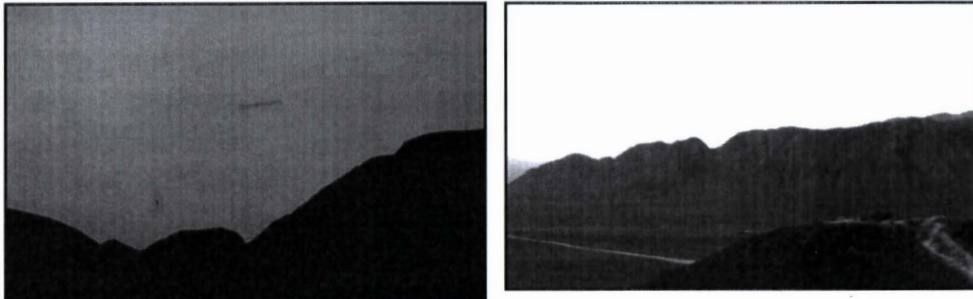

What’s more, before the witness could get his actual camera to record clear footage, the object could be seen “flashing and rotating.”

UFO Manifests Over Nazca Lines?

A Peruvian UFO hunter spotted an unidentified object, known as an OVNI in Spanish, hovering over the famous Nazca Lines on the evening of June 9.

The footage, uploaded on June 27 by the Peruvian Association of Ufology, shows a dark, and strangely unmoving, oblong object in the sky. The video's description says it was "completely static" and likens its shape to a zeppelin.

"Are we facing the manifestation of a UFO on the Nazca Lines?" they ask.

WAS UFO FILMED FLYING OUT OF VOLCANO?

Shock new claim follows livecam recording

By JON AUSTIN

PUBLISHED: 12:24, Mon, Oct 10, 2016

Now, after footage emerged which allegedly shows a UFO zooming out the side of an erupting volcano, comes the sensational claim that aliens have bases on Earth tucked away - you guessed it, inside volcanoes.

The new footage in question was taken from the livestream at night of the erupting Colima Volcano in Mexico, yesterday.

In a video entitled "UFO Leaves Colima Volcano Real-time Streaming," YouTube channel Streetcap1 said: "It warps on out of there."

An oblong-shaped object is seen either emerging from the side of, or behind the volcano, before appearing to fly up at an around 45 degree angle.

Referring to Streetcap1's clip, Scott C Waring, editor of website ufosightingsdaily.com wrote: "He caught a UFO leaving the side of the mountain during a volcano eruption.

"The UFO is long, and cigar-shaped much like many of the past UFOs seen around Mexican volcanoes on live cams."

Mr Waring, who has repeatedly insisted that aliens have bases for UFOs inside volcanoes on his blog, appeared in no doubt what it was.

He added: "The UFO could not leave from the mouth since there was an eruption, so they took a side path."

He claims alien visitors choose the inside of volcanoes, or deep under the sea for secret bases for their UFOs and equipment, as they are the least likely places we would explore.

Could megalithic stone circles be used for alien communications?

By Esteban Montana

A significant number of UFO sightings of discs and triangles have been reported over the years around the area of Mitchell's Fold Stone Circle, Shropshire. It is argued that these sightings are related to the alignment of this site with the general area of Montgomery ley line. It is claimed that this alignment is used by extraterrestrial spacecraft as a point of navigation – or to refuel by tapping into the energy (Perks, 2012; UFO Centre, 2017; Rainford, 2017).

The objective of this article is to offer an alternative interpretation of stone circle monuments that apparently has not been proposed so far. That is, it is suggested the idea that these monuments were actually used as electromagnetic receptors for alien telecommunication similar of what is known today as satellite antennas. In order to support this possibility, evidence from an experiment carried out in Mitchell's Fold Stone Circle is presented. The results of this experiment revealed that Mitchell's Fold Stone Circle has the ability to channel radio and microwave radiation.

The methodology adopted in this investigation was designed to identify two potential electromagnetic anomalies in Mitchell's Fold Stone Circle that we would expect to find in a modern satellite antenna: (1) microwave radiation anomalies; and (2) EVP (Electronic voice phenomenon) anomalies. They are explained as follows.

The aim of this article is to present evidence supporting the idea that stone circle monuments were used as ancient alien satellite antennas. If this was true, then the types of electromagnetic radiation that would be employed by alien spacecraft would be the ones that can go through Earth's atmosphere. Clearly a good candidate is microwave radiation because microwaves have short wavelengths and allow them to pass through the Earth's atmosphere (Capmany and Novak, 2007). In considering this fact, the methodology adopted in this investigation consisted of measuring microwave anomalies in the site by means of a portable microwave radiation meter. Two approaches were employed for this purpose and are explained as follows.

The first approach consisted of measuring microwave radiation of a mobile phone connected to the Internet across the area of the site using a portable digital microwave radiation meter. The latter was located near the ground and the mobile phone was located 1.5 meters over the microwave radiation meter. The idea behind this approach is to explore whether stone circles were used as a sort of parabolic satellite antennas for space navigation. If this was the case, then the phone device would play the role of electromagnetic receptor. In this case, higher levels of microwave radiation would be detected in the center of the monument.

The second approach consisted of measuring microwave emission using the same portable microwave radiation meter but without the mobile phone. This approach was employed to determine whether the stone circle needed an electromagnetic receptor to be functional.

The EVP phenomenon has traditionally been attributed to dead people's voices that are identified from a recording system (Baruss, 2001; Townsend, 2007; Sabol, 2013). It has also been argued that the origin of EVP phenomenon can be natural and it can be caused by radio interferences (i.e. radio transmissions) that are accidentally recorded by a recording system (Leary and Butler, 2015). If the latter interpretation was correct and if stone circles were a type of electromagnetic antenna, then radio interferences would be expected to be found in the site under study. To test this possibility, a digital recorder was employed in different parts of Mitchell's Fold Stone Circle area. Later on, the recordings were filtered and analyzed using the Audacity software.

The experiment was conducted on 12 August 2017, at 20:00 British time. The first activity consisted of measuring microwave radiation in the ground of the site and the stones. No radiation anomaly was identified by the portable digital microwave radiation meter. The second activity consisted of measuring microwave radiation of the mobile phone across the area of the site and the stones. In this case, the portable digital microwave radiation meter detected a significant microwave radiation from the mobile phone in the center of the monument. However, this emission disappeared when measures were carried out in places other than the center. This impressive finding suggests that the stone circle has the ability to channel microwave radiation as it would be expected in a satellite antenna.

On the other hand, digital recordings (i.e. EVP) were carried out in different parts of the site. After filtering and processing the recording, a voice was identified only in the recording carried out in the center. This evidence, again, suggests that the monument has the ability to channel electromagnetic radiation, a fact that may have been used for telecommunication.

This experiment was filmed and can be seen at the following link: <http://www.jar-magazine.com/in-depth/66-could-megalithic-stone-circles-be-used-for-alien-communications>

THE HIDDEN UNITY and BEGINNINGS

The Hidden Unity looks at the strange phenomenon of subconscious siting of ley points, and notes that places of worship, of all religions and all ages, tend to predominate on leys. The environmental and philosophical implications of this are discussed, and the apparent necessity of worship but irrelevance of doctrine. Two ley centres are given as examples, and investigated in depth - the Shah Jehan Mosque in Woking and the Guru Nanak Sikh Temple, Scunthorpe. There is an appendix by Eileen Grimshaw on the significance of the Pagan religion to this study. Illustrated with photographs, maps and line drawings.

£2 plus 30p p&p from the Amskaya address. Please make cheques payable to J. Goddard.

Beginnings is about a series of potentially useful discoveries, mainly made by Jimmy Goddard over a period of about twenty years, but having some overlap with discoveries made by others. For various reasons, the investigations are all in their early stages, and some have not been continued. They include earth energy detection, natural antigravity, subconscious siting, ley width, and the solar transition effect. There is also a chapter on cognitive dissonance - a psychological factor which seems to have been at the root of all bigotry - scientific, religious and other - down the ages. The booklet is concluded with an account of the discovery of leys by Alfred Watkins. £2 plus 30p p&p from the Amskaya address. Please make cheques payable to J. Goddard.

EARTH PEOPLE, SPACE PEOPLE

In 1961, Tony Wedd produced a manuscript Earth Men, Space Men, detailing many claims of extraterrestrial contact. It was never published, and I had thought it was lost, though it has recently been located - Tony had given it to Timothy Good. To try to make up for the loss in a much more modest size, this booklet was prepared. As well as giving details of some of the more prominent contact claims, there are articles on the history of the STAR Fellowship and some of its personalities, evidence for life in the Solar System and investigation into extraterrestrial language.
